Considerations. Located right next to an old governmental building, the space is rarely used at a market place, mainly for functions and security. The buildings, each of the perimeter, is a well-used shade part of the day, together with the scattered trees, creating a more pleasant climate than in the sun.

Circulation. Every area in a white garage block makes it easy through the area, hence an area free of obstructions is required if this is to be kept. This informal road is also used by materials and riparia.

Dwellings. Along the existing wall simple dwellings have been created by people working in the area. As they are located in the middle of the site, where the wall is removed, a solution of these are most likely necessary.

Market. The most obvious thing to consider, and also the one that lends the site its atmosphere. The market should be kept and integrated with the intervention to keep the business going in the area.

Brief. A contemporary meeting place A place in the old city where you can extend your knowledge in a space characterized by peoples free will to learn and develop. Integrated with the existing market on site creating a space characterized by its diverse inputs by overlaying the different uses and program. By shuffling the ordinary conventions in terms of formality and leisure the aim is to achieve a place where both areas work together and hence gets improved. So the ambition is to create a space, for both men and women, that inspires and lends opportunities to try out things and talk about things that perhaps might be unusual in the everyday context in the old city.
